Gazette Going Paperless

The Guantanamo Bay Gazette has been available online to GTMO residents for the last few years. Beginning Friday, Oct. 1, the Gazette will go completely paperless and only be available in electronic form.

This edition is scheduled to be the last printed version of the publication, which has been a GTMO icon in one form or another for the past 60 years; however, some individual agencies may continue to publish small quantities for their personnel.

With the Gazette Online Edition, residents can view all photos and graphics in full color; and the editorial staff is not limited by budgeting constraints. In fact, you may notice that at times the online edition has carried more information than the printed version.

The current link to the Gazette is www.nsgtmo.navy.mil/Gazette.htm.

GTMO to Receive New Long Distance Provider

The Navy has successfully contracted with Satellite Communications Systems Incorporated (SCSI) of Hampton, Va., to provide commercial Long Distance Telephone Service to GTMO effective Jan. 4, 2005. Local Communications Networks (LCN) will continue to provide service at their current rates until cutover to the new vendor is complete.

Services provided under this contract will include long distance telephone service to worldwide locations, dial-up Internet service, toll-free services, DSL high-speed Internet with unlimited access, and cellular phone service.

Effective the January 2005 users can purchase pre-paid SCSI calling cards. Calling Card machines will be available at strategic locations on GTMO to accommodate personnel. SCSI plans to have a web page established which will allow users to purchase cards on line with a credit card as well.

Callers at GTMO calling any of the worldwide locations specified in the pricing list will dial a GTMO telephone number assigned to SCSI for use of the pre-paid card at the rates listed above. A $0.50 connect charge will apply. There will not be a charge for an incomplete call.

Callers in the U.S. or Canada calling GTMO will dial an SCSI provided 800, toll free telephone number for use of the pre-paid card and will be charged a $0.50 connect fee and $0.20 per minute.

Callers calling GTMO from any of the specified locations other than North America will dial an SCSI provided telephone number for use of the card and will be charged a $0.50 connect fee and $0.20 per minute.

Equal access to commercially issued 1-800 calling cards (i.e., AT&T, Sprint, MCI, etc.) will be provided. A $0.15 per minute transport cost will apply.

Inbound calling will be an international call. In the January 2005 inbound callers will be able to purchase pre-paid SCSI calling cards on line using a credit card. This will provide individuals with the capability of paying the $0.50 connection fee and the $0.20 per minute rate.

DSL High Speed Internet will be provided with unlimited access. The cost is $60 per month.

Cellular service will be provided with unlimited local calling on the naval base. Long distance calls from GTMO will be charged at the rates listed. The cost will be $49 per month for service. Roaming rates will apply for use of cell phones away GTMO. Those rates have not yet been established. Cellular telephones will need to be purchased from SCSI unless individual has a telephone that will work with the vendor's system.

The Base Communications Office will keep residents updated with information and changes as they occur in regards to services to our users.

Rates for services are listed below. These are flat rates effective seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

Long Distance Service/Cost

North America - $0.09/minute

Europe - $0.20/minute

South America - $0.50/minute

Africa - $0.75/minute

Individuals Reminded of Photography Rules

The Guantanamo Bay area provides residents and visitors a great opportunity to capture events, places and wildlife on film or digitally.

However, due to some of the Naval Base's unique circumstances, individuals are reminded that photographs may not be taken of the following:

- Any aircraft, or parts thereof, except as authorized by the Operations officer;
- Any methods of training;
- Any antenna (radio or radar receiving or emitting) facility;
- Areas deemed restricted;
- Detention facilities or operations

If you are caught taking photos in violation of the above, the film and/or camera will be confiscated by Naval Station Security Department.

For further guidance on photography on board Naval Base Guantanamo Bay, review COMNAVBASEGTMOINST 5531.1D.

Mission Accomplished

Naval Base Guantanamo Pins 12 Chief Petty Officers

"This day is about the future. This day is about your willingness to assume more responsibility – your willingness to assume the task that is before you, to lead our Navy. You will have the opportunity to pick up the paint brush, and paint a vision of the future for our young men and women. You will be such an important part of their lives." Adm. Vern Clark, Chief of Naval Operations

Twelve anxious and excited First Class Petty Officers completed the final phase of their 7 1/2 week Chief Petty Officer (CPO) Initiation at the Chief's Pinning Ceremony held Sept. 16 at the Windjammer Club.

The U.S. Navy is the only branch of service that makes a marked distinction between the E-6 and E-7 ranks. "In the Navy, there's the uniform change from blue shirt to khaki and you become part of management," said HMC Joe Orosz, CPO Initiation co-chairman, noting that the initiation process is a coordinated effort by the entire chiefs' mess. "Chiefs make things happen. The Navy lives by the chiefs. If you need something done, go ask a chief."

During the initiation process the chief's mess helps the Chief Selectees stop thinking like first classes and start thinking like chiefs. "We have to get them to think, 'You are the chief. You're a fountain of knowledge,'" said HMC Rob Kimball, CPO Initiation co-chairman. "However, you also have to realize that when you don't have the answer, you can't be afraid to ask for help. You learn to use the chiefs' mess to solve a lot of problems. Our strength is in the unity of the chiefs' mess."

The chiefs' mess teaches the selectees the guiding principles for Navy leadership - leading, developing, communicating and supporting. "This means leading your sailors, developing your enlisted and junior officers, communicating core values and supporting the chain of command," Orosz said.

"It's awesome to make chief. It's one of my best accomplishments in my Navy career," said new chief ATC Tonya McKennie. "September 16 was one of the greatest days of our lives, putting our khakis on and moving from being not only a leader, but also a manager," said McKennie. "Being a chief was one of my ultimate goals."

GTMO Participates in International Beach Cleanup

By JO3 Jeremy Zeitlin
Naval Media Center, GTMO

Keeping our beaches and surrounding waters beautiful is a responsibility all GTMO residents share, and it's a responsibility one special group of individuals took on with passion Sept. 19 during the PADI Project Aware International Annual Worldwide Cleanup effort.

Dozens of scuba divers from the Reef Raiders Dive Club, along with a number of GTMO volunteers, gathered at Cable Beach with the intention of cleaning up both above and below the surface of the waters, targeting the beautification of the reef systems, and the shoreline. This was a task made all the more challenging since the passing of Hurricane Ivan scattered debris over a wide area. Volunteers from Security Department lent a helping hand a few days prior to the World-wide Cleanup day, helping to minimize the debris on shore.

The plan, according to Bill Leonard, president of the Reef Raiders Dive Club, was not only to have people walking the shores, but to send divers into the water to scour around the coral, getting all the plastic, cans, and other waste that had deposited there during the storm.

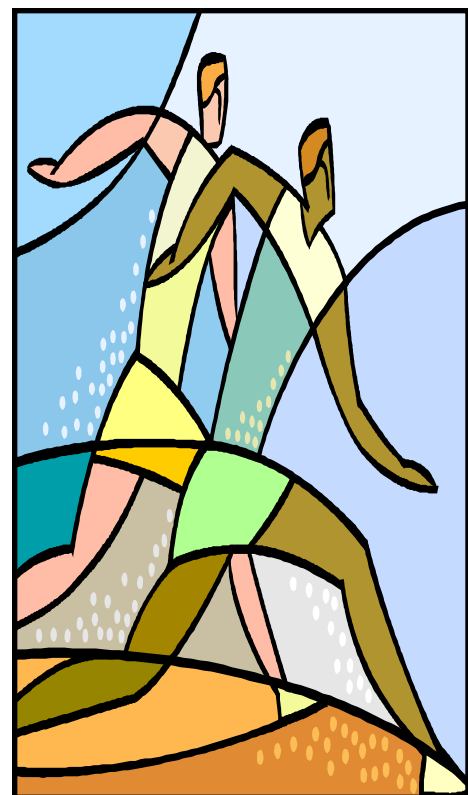

"Fortunately, our reefs held up really well," said Leonard. "We were in the water Saturday, and observed that the storm hadn't damaged the reefs, but had put a lot of trash in them. Much of the debris that was on shore got washed out, and because it got taken up in the currents, it tangled up in the reefs."

To keep areas such as Cable Beach look in great shape, volunteers and members of Reef Raiders Dive Club participated in Project Aware International Annual Worldwide Cleanup Day.

The bulk of the trash collected by the team was made up of cans and plastics, amounting to several hundred pounds.

Fire Department Celebrates at 3rd Annual Ball

After a postponement due to Hurricane Ivan, the Guantanamo Bay Fire Department held its Third Annual Fire Department Ball on Friday, Sept. 17 at the Windjammer. The delayed date didn't seem to phase the crowd as hundreds showed up to celebrate the brotherhood of the firefighters and the continued success of what is believed to be, the oldest continually operating overseas fire department in the U.S. Navy.

After guests enjoyed a wonderful dinner, Fire Chief John Mabbitt and Fire Inspector Cecil Hall conducted a moving tribute to all fallen firefighters. According to the U.S. Fire Administration, every year an average 100 firefighters in the U.S. die in the line of duty. In the Fire Service the Fallen Firefighter Ceremony is the ritual used to honor those who have made the ultimate sacrifice.

Following brief remarks from Fire Chief Mabbitt and Capt. Les McCoy, COMNAVBASE, keynote speaker Dr. Leahcim Semaj, president of the Jamaican Psychological Society and popular radio host and newspaper columnist, addressed the crowd.

Dr. Semaj spoke about the importance of parents making time for their children and not trying to compensate for their absence by buying their children material objects.

The GTMO Fire Department has 93 members - 80 of those members are Jamaicans whose service on this base separates them from their families. Semaj's message touched many in the audience when he said it was important to touch base with your children every day, whether it be over the phone or via e-mail. In GTMO where so many people are separated from their families, he encouraged the audience to make time each day to "connect" with their kids—saying it is critical to raising responsible and confident adults.

After Semaj's address, the awards portion of the ceremony recognized the accomplishments and achievements of several dedicated fire fighters and Fire Department personnel. Some of the awards presented included the following:

Fire Officer of the Year - Capt. Fitzroy Carney
Career Achievement Awards

Capt. George Rookwood & Capt. Neville Stewart
(Recognizing 38 Years of Service to the GTMO Fire Department)

The Guantanamo Bay Fire Department would like to thank the GTMO Community for their support of this year's ball. We deeply appreciate everyone who purchased a ticket, T-Shirt or donated prizes in support of this event. We pledge to work hard each year to improve this celebration of the GTMO Fire Service.

Above: Justin Helms played Taps after the 21-gun salute performed by Sgt. Joel Rodriguez, Sgt. Marko Stawnyczyj, Sgt. Frank Torbert III, Sgt. Francisco Ubri, Cpl. Dezmond Ray, Lance Cpl. Adam Czuper, PFC Armando Corral and PFC Christopher Vlisides of Marine Corps Security Forces Company. Left: Capt. Les McCoy, COMNAVBASE shared a moving prisoner of war story with the crowd. His story, along with Brig. Gen. Jay Hood's, Commander, JTFGTMO, served as a reminder to all in attendance of the horror and hardships these brave men and women have endured and why the United States works diligently to bring them home. Below: Members of Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay bow their heads in silent prayer.

POWs, MIAs Honored at Annual Ceremony

U.S. Naval Base Guantanamo Bay held a special Prisoner of War and Missing in Action Recognition Ceremony at the POW/MIA Memorial on Monday honoring the thousands of American service men and women who have not yet returned home - those who responded to duty with great courage, selflessness and the invincible spirit of generations of Americans.

Until July, 18, 1979, no commemoration was held to honor America's POW/MIAs. In the past 25 years through the efforts of Congress, the Department of Veterans Affairs and organizations nationwide, National POW/MIA Recognition Day Ceremonies are now held throughout the nation and the world on military installations, ships at sea, schools, churches, national veteran and civic organizations.

The focus of the ceremonies is to ensure that America remembers its responsibility to stand behind those who serve our nation and do everything possible to account for those who do not return.

The overcast GTMO morning reflected the somberness of the ceremony. After a joint Color Guard lowered the U.S. flag to half-mast at the POW/MIA Memorial, the crowd bowed their heads in prayer and remembrance.

As Capt. Les McCoy, COMNAVBASE and Brig. Gen. Jay Hood, Commander JTFGTMO, placed the ceremonial wreaths at the base of the monument, a 21-gun salute was given by members of Marine Corps Security Forces Company followed by "Taps" played by bugler Justin Helms.

Guest speakers Hood and McCoy each addressed the crowd, sharing insights, personal stories reflecting the bravery of those prisoners of war who have endured captivity, brutality and deprivations, and reminding us to never give up hope that one day all our sons and daughters, sisters and brothers, friends and loved ones will return home.

Following the guest speakers' remarks, three W.T. Sampson students presented essays written in honor of the event. (See essays on page 8).

At the conclusion of the ceremony, one thing was certain - the POW/MIA will never be forgotten.

Essays Reflect Importance of POW/MIA Recognition

As part of National POW/MIA Recognition Day, W.T. Sampson English students, grades 7-9, were asked to write essays explaining why the day is so important. The top three essays were chosen to be read by their authors during Monday's ceremony at the POW/MIA Memorial.

By April Helms
7th Grade Essay

Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard are wonderful people we should think about each day. These people risk their lives today, and I want to thank them, but I am here to talk about the people who are not here – the POWs and MIAs.

They go willingly to defend us and may be tortured or hurt. Yet, they still hold their heads high. I wish every one of them would return. I hope everyone at least thinks about them on this important day. The least we can do is to give them a day dedicated to their service.

They fought. They died. We cried. The hardest thing to do is to think about their families who get calls about their husbands, wives, children, mothers and fathers who were captured and may never come home.

God bless those in uniform today and who continue to fight for freedom. We know in our hearts that God holds everyone who is not here. I know the POW/MIAs will always be in our hearts. God bless the POWs and MIAs - or as my own family believes, the most important Americans! God bless you and thank you for having this special day dedicated to all POWs, MIAs and their families.

By Hayden Kemp
8th Grade Essay

Why do we have one day to remember prisoners of war and people missing in action? We owe them. We must thank them. These people cared enough for us to go and fight for our freedom, so we should at least show them that we care for them.

Even if you don't have friends and/or family that are POWs or MIA, you should still think about them. They don't know you either, but they tried to protect you. You may not realize it, but they risked their own lives for you, your friends, and anyone you know and anyone you don't know.

This about this. Some children have never met their fathers or older brothers because their fathers and brothers were fighting for our country and became a POW or MIA. How would you feel if you didn't know your brother or your father while growing up? It would be painful to find out that they were gone forever.

You know what? This is not the only day you can thank POWs, MIAs and other military people. You can care and think about them every day. The next time you say the Pledge of Allegiance or see the American flag, think about and thank the soldiers fighting for you and your country.

By Stephanie Carvajal
9th Grade Essay

The day dedicated to the POW and the MIA is really important because there are many soldiers out there doing their responsibility. We are grateful to them for doing such things for us. We must recognize their heroism; and as such, we give them a day to recognize their struggles. These are men and women that give up their lives to let us, the future generation, be free and not have to go through that struggle.

These men and women know that there might be a possibility of them going to war and never coming back. They know that what they do is for the best of the country and the world. Also, their families will understand that what they do is for something that will bring peace. The job they do is to serve our country so that it becomes a better place for future generations to live in.

Many of them think of their families, and the thing that keeps them going is their happiness and that makes them think that sooner or later the war will be done and they can see their faces again. The POWs are among the soldiers that just don't let the enemy scare them. They hold on, and they have confidence that their fellow soldiers will come and rescue them. The missing in action will never be forgotten by anyone. They might have given their lives for our sake, and we cannot forget them. They are all really important soldiers, and we will never forget them for doing the most heroic act - giving his or her life for us.

These aren't enough reasons to say that this day is special - the day dedicated to the prisoners of war and the missing in action. This day is a time to thank them for doing their job, and even though they might not be here in the flesh, they are here with us spiritually. We thank them for their heroic acts and we honor them. These men and women made the ultimate sacrifice for our country, and they deserve a day to be remembered. This day is the day dedicated to the prisoners of war and the missing in action.

Is Sponsorship Really Important?

The answer is yes! Put simply, sponsoring someone can mean the difference between a tour that's outstanding or just ho hum and YOU are the key. As Ombudsmen, we understand and appreciate the importance of a wonderful transition and successful PCS move!

Each duty station is different from the last, but GTMO even more so. Here are some things to consider when sponsoring members to GTMO.

- ♦ Take the Sponsorship Training offered by the Fleet and Family Support Center.. This will enable you to be the best Sponsor you can be and arm you with information specific to Guantanamo Bay! Call 4141 to find out when the next scheduled training session is offered.

- ♦ Once notified you are a sponsor, make every effort to contact the individual personally, whether by letter, e-mail or phone. You will be somebody's guiding light through this relocation and their first impression of the command. Be sure to make it a good one! In your letter or conversation, include some information about yourself and your level of commitment and availability as a sponsor. Let them know what they can expect from you. Be realistic and honest in what you offer; it is far better to be able to give more of yourself than is expected than to not be able to live up to the expectations you have given. Correspond regularly with your sponsorees, you'll be amazed at the questions you might be asked that you hadn't thought of!

- ♦ Encourage them to visit these websites: the Naval Station web-site at www.nsgtmo.navy.mil and SITES (Standard Installation Topic Exchange Service) at www.dmdc.osd.mil/appj/sites/index.jsp.

- ♦ If accompanied, find out the ages of their children, pets, vehicles, whether or not they're attending college, etc. Gather information from the Child Development Center, Vet Clinic, Navy College office and other pertinent departments. If single, gather information on the Liberty Program offered through MWR.

- ♦ Be sure to get a Limited Power of Attorney to arrange for such things as base housing.

- ♦ Obtain a loaner kit and arrange for housing/loaner furniture.

- ♦ Meet your sponsorees at the Leeward Air Terminal the day they arrive and plan to spend the day with them obtaining anything necessary for the first night on the island. (i.e. NEX shopping, something to eat that night, etc)

- ♦ Help with base check in and inform them about Base Indoc. All departments should be participating in Base Indoc and family members are encouraged to attend.

- ♦ Occasionally follow-up to see how they're adjusting to GTMO life.

As a dependent, please remember that the service member needs your support to help make the sponsoring process a successful one!

Your own experience in the area is a great resource. Think back to your move to the area and the questions and concerns you had then. What did your sponsor (if you had one) do for you? What did you need that your sponsor didn't help you with? What did you learn from your sponsor that you can pass on? Was your sponsor all that you needed them to be, or did you feel let down? Sometimes the lesson we experience is not only how to do something right, but also how not to do it.

We're all here in support of our military's mission. A good Permanent Change of Station move is essential to a successful tour.

Become Part of the Hospital Spouses Organization

As the hearts behind the hands that heal, the Hospital Spouses' Organization (HSO) provides support and companionship to the spouses of all hospital personnel, both Active Duty and Civilian.

The organization's focus is to help newly reporting spouses and their families ease their transition to this isolated duty station and provide them with information about the community. We offer benevolence as needed and provide service to our members and our community.

How Do I Become A Member of HSO?

HSO welcomes any interested parties. All you need to do is complete a membership application and pay $5 in dues. This entitles you to the monthly HSO newsletter and you will be included on HSO phone tree. The phone tree informs members of upcoming issues and events.

There are different types of memberships available:

Active Membership – Spouses of active duty staff members and spouses of civilian employees of the Naval Hospital.

Associate Membership – Any active duty staff member or civilian employee of the Naval Hospital.

Courtesy Membership – The board may invite such persons, as they deem appropriate to be courtesy members for one club year.

Non-Members – Those who are not eligible for membership may attend functions as the guest of an active member.

For more information on joining the HSO, contact Kathy Arlinghaus, 7017, or e-mail kathyarlinghaus@yahoo.com.
